Digital Painting 2015

Inspired by local landscapes, marauding ravens and life drawings, most of my current work is painted using a computer program Painter 2017 © Corel, and a pressure sensitive Wacom tablet & pen as my artist’s media / tool to produce final, one-of-a-kind archival fine art images.

All my pieces are originals: imagery is drawn on the computer. I typically use drawings created from life drawing / plein air sessions, and “play” (explore the possibilities) with the basic simple image until I find a personal satisfaction with the final work. During the past few years, I have been creating a series of figurative paintings I consider modern cave paintings, depicting figurative images on various decaying urban walls: peeling paint, spalling stucco, rotting wood surfaces. The figuratives come from 1 – 7 minute poses with a live model.

I treat each printed creation as a one-of-a-kind original. Selected images are printed using Epson Archival Inks (guaranteed to last 100+ years) on 100% acid-free rag paper or other archival papers and stored / framed in an archival tradition.

Most of 2016 & 2017 was spent healing from an illness (Vestibular Neuritis) which drastically effected my balance – retraining my brain how to walk again (among other things). It has only been in the middle of 2017 that I’ve gotten back to figurative paintings and other creative endeavors.

In the past years, I’ve displayed my artwork in San Francisco & Monterey bay area group shows, restaurants, galleries and universities. Current work has been displayed at the Tannery Art Center, Santa Cruz Art League, the Santa Cruz Mountains Art Center, Art Council of Santa Cruz County, Works Gallery in San Jose, the Davenport Gallery and various on-line web galleries. A listing of these are provided upon request. My web site, www.LindaLevy.com contains examples of all of my artwork.
